Your medical care network

Your FedEx medical plan option, administered by UnitedHealthcare, is designed to help you access quality care from a strong nationwide network with 1.7 million providers and 6,000 hospitals.¹

Here's how it works:

- As part of your medical plan option, you may pay less for Tier 1 doctors and specialists. Look for the “blue dot” Tier 1 symbol when searching the UnitedHealthcare network on My Choose Well, or call Choose Well Care Connect.
- You do not need referrals for in-network specialists
- Your plan option requires you to select a primary care provider (PCP). If you haven't done so, a Tier 1 PCP was assigned to you – their name will appear on your medical plan ID card. Call Choose Well Care Connect to change your selection.

Look for the blue dot

When you search for providers on My Choose Well, look for the blue dot that indicates a Tier 1 provider.

Important tips

- A physician's tier status can change, so it's good to check before getting care
- Coverage for in-network non-Tier 1 providers will be different, so be sure to verify provider status*

¹UnitedHealthcare internal analysis, September 30, 2023.

*Out-of-network providers are not covered.

Preventive care that's covered 100%

Even if you're feeling great, seeing your doctor once a year is a smart idea – to keep up with annual exams and recommended screenings and help find little problems before they turn into bigger ones. As part of your coverage, your preventive care is covered 100% when you see an in-network provider. What's more, approximately 98% of FedEx employees are within an estimated 15-minute drive of a UnitedHealthcare primary care provider (PCP).*

If you need help getting started, a Choose Well Care Advocate can help you find a doctor, review recommended screenings and more.

Or get personalized information online about preventive care including a checklist of screenings recommended for you and coverage details.

Financial tools

When planned or unexpected medical expenses happen, it's nice to know you've got money set aside. Having a Health Savings Account (HSA), Health Reimbursement Account (HRA) or Flexible Spending Account (FSA) with Optum Financial® helps you do just that – while taking advantage of tax savings.

If you have an HRA provided by FedEx:

- Use your HRA to help pay for qualified medical, mental health and substance use expenses
- If your spouse or dependents are eligible, you can also use your HRA to assist in paying for their qualified expenses
- Up to $1,000 of unused HRA credits can be rolled over each year (including grandfathered amounts in 2025)
- You can also access funds by submitting a payment request online or via the mobile app – be sure to keep copies of your receipts

If you have a Health Care FSA that you contribute to:

- Any eligible medical, mental health and substance use expenses will be paid from the FSA first
- The Health Care FSA can also be used for dental, vision and pharmacy expenses, unlike the HRA

If you have an HSA (funded by FedEx and you):

- Use this special savings account for qualified health care expenses
- Your HSA never expires and remains in your name, even if you switch jobs
- In addition to contributions from FedEx, you can make your own contributions through payroll deduction – elections can be changed throughout the year
- Your HSA also includes investment options to help potentially grow your balance tax-free

Getting started

If you haven't already, activate your Optum Financial account through the online portal at myoptumfinancial.com/fedex.

If you elect the HSA and also enroll in the Health Care FSA, and/or have leftover credits in your HRA, rules apply on how you can use those. Contact a Care Advocate to learn more.
